Questions received

Q1: Do you have any sense of how many parolees we're talking about, say for one year throughout Alameda County? Just a ballpark guess. Budget and programming would be different for ten participants than for fifty.

A1: The Parolee Reentry Court has assisted 250 participants over its 2 ½ year program. At any given time there are approximately 80 participants in the program, not all of which have a substance abuse problem. We have sufficient funding for 50 – 60 participants to be provided outpatient services. As a reminder, the Court will contract with multiple agencies to provide these services. The Court's Case manager will assess each participant and direct them to various agencies throughout the County of Alameda based upon their referral

Q2: The bid submission directions seem to say that the technical proposal and the cost proposal should be sent in separate envelopes. Do you mean they must actually be postmarked separately? Or could the two envelopes be placed in a larger enveloped and mailed together?

A2: The two do not have to be postmarked separately they can be placed in two separate envelopes and placed in one larger envelope for mailing.
